This will be our Annual Picnic, a tradition started early in our history. It used to be at Herb Hurlbut's house in St. Albans, migrated to the Forest Reserve, then to Russ's house in Jericho. It has now moved to Toby Fulwiler's home in Fairfield. The program will be Al Stirt showing some works to provoke our imagination, plus some critiquing of our work. Come around 10:00-10:30 in the morning & we'll get set up and have some refreshment. Al's talk won't start until after lunch.

Joe Laferriere will commence with burnt sacrifices about 11:30. What to bring: Side dishes suitable for a shared picnic. Your own variety of protein if you eschew beef. Your own serving spoons. Also bring recent works for comment by Al Stirt. He's acknowledged as a first rate turner with a great eye.

Directions to Toby Fulwiler's Fairfield Farm for the annual Woodchuck Picnic, August 20, 2011. Fairfield is forty minutes northeast of Burlington, eight miles east of St. Albans, nine miles northwest of Fairfax, 14 miles west of Bakersfield. Directions below designate two good ways to approach where I live:

From Burlington via I-89:

> -I-89 north from Burlington to first St Alban's Exit #19,
 > -right on 104 north to 36,
 > -right on 36, 8 miles to blinking light at Fairfield,
 > -right on South Rd., 2 miles,
 > -left, on Ridge Rd, 2 miles,

From Essex Center, Hwy 15 (about 35 minutes)

> 128 through Westford to 104 (Fairfax)
 > right on Buck Hollow to T at South Road > left on South Road, 1/2 mile, to Ridge Road

Random Shots— The Newer Age

I'm happy to yield part of my space for some good news of Woodchucks this month. It's great that Ralph has a new generation in his hands.

Communications: I'm reluctantly being drawn into the area of "social media". When I attend a meeting, there is usually someone with a little black smartphone, paying half his attention to the meeting and fiddling with this...thing the rest of the time. I see two people, obviously a couple, with two of these things that they are each playing with, obviously not relating directly to each other. What is it about?

They are on Facebook or Twitter or some other messaging medium. I don't have a clue about the language that's used. Friend? Like? I don't get it.

Our local Chamber of Commerce is looking into becoming a presence in that world to enlarge its usefulness to its members. One thing I took home about this mess is that there is a network targeted at professionals. It's called LinkedIn, and it's the fastest growing thing on the Web and possibly in the stock market. Aside from the market's nosedive recently, the stock is hot.

So, what about woodworkers in general and Woodchucks in particular? Should we be turning part of our attention away from Chatter and the Web and getting more interested in those little gadgets and 140-letter messages? You tell me. I just don't know.

Arny

Woodchuck Sightings—Ralph Tursini & Micah

Micah Emidio Tursini was born July 5. We were very fortunate that all went smoothly with the birth. He and Andrea are both doing well and hopefully he'll be a good sport for the woodchuck picnic. Now if only I could get him to do some sanding....

From The President's Desk

August Greetings Fellow Woodchucks!

No comments about how the summer is once again "flashing" by again, but I will use it as a little segue into my first comments. Back in the winter I announced that I would be stepping down as your president at the end of my current term, which is in October. The principal reason is that starting this winter I will join the vast flock of northerners known as "snowbirds", and spend the winter... somewhere else. I am not sure where that will be, but by the time many of you read this I will be on my way to Florida to look at property. For this reason I will be unable to attend our annual picnic (see notices elsewhere in "Chatter" for details on the picnic), turning over hosting to your vice-president, Joe LaFerriere, and secretary Toby Fulwiler, who is graciously opening his home to the club for the event this year. Rest assured the Woodchucks will not be far from my thoughts though. As a matter-of-fact, I have been in touch with the president of the Sarasota, Florida (which is where I am looking at houses) chapter of the AAW, and hope to meet with him while there.

Progress on the video front: On Friday the 5th, I picked up the cameras from Mickey Palmer and will be taking them, along with the TV, which I purchased a couple weeks ago, up to Blake Ewoldsen at the Vermont Woodworking School(<http://www.vermontwoodworkingschool.com/VWS/Home.html>) to design a storage locker for our equipment that they have agreed to build for us. Hopefully this will all be done for our September meeting!

Another reminder about the Vermont Fine Furniture and Woodworking Festival (<http://www.vermontwoodfestival.org>) the last weekend of September down in Woodstock. We will have two displays in our booth, one of work by club members that is not for sale and shows the wide variety of things that Woodchucks make, and another of work that is for sale. Please think about putting a piece of your work in one, or both of the displays. We will also need volunteers to staff the booth. You only need to put in a couple hours on either Saturday or Sunday and you will get a pass for the whole weekend. Give me a call at 802-899-3059, or send me a note at (skunkmen@gmail.com).

I still have quite a bit of CA glue (in all three weights) left from the last order. I also have 5-minute epoxy. Contact me if you would like some.

The 25th anniversary books(<http://www.woodturner.org/shop/Products.asp>) have finally arrived from the AAW!

These were planned for April delivery, but first there was a printer problem, then a distribution problem.....for some reason the word 'SNAFU' comes to mind!.....but now all is well. I will contact, individually, those who ordered them, and I have one extra copy. If you are interested, get in touch with me. More can be ordered as well.

Through our friends at 'Vermont WoodNet' I have made an interesting contact, and one that may prove to be helpful to those who are always on the lookout for unusual turning stock. Jim Austin over in Middlesex has some property with a logging and milling operation, and they (Austin & Flannigan Lumber Co) are trying to serve the turning community. They pull logs out of the woods and stockpile them for a couple years, hoping to encourage some nice spalting. They have been selling some blocks on E-bay, but really would rather offer them to Vermont based turners. They are on North Bearlump Road (I am not making that up!) and I plan to go over to take a look at their operation and do an article for a future issue of "Chatter". It would be great to support this local effort, and who knows, might yield some great pieces for us! You can call Jim at 802-249-8367 or write him at (hungermountainhardwoods@wildblue.net).

The deadline for signing up to attend the Vermont Wood Products Marketing Council's August 17th seminar, "2020 Vision", is Friday August 12th. The governor will be there. The secretary of commerce will be there, as will representatives from all parts of the woodworking and wood products industry, from forestry to marketing. Since we listshare with Vermont WoodNet, you all got their latest newsletter with all the information. You can call them at 802-747-7989 or write them at (info@vermontwood.com).

Thanks to all who have sent in pieces and notices to Arny for "Chatter". This really helps him continue to putting out a newsletter that we all can be proud of! It doesn't have to be a feature article. A link, reference to another publication, or a short tool review will do just fine. It all helps him out. Thanks!

Cheers,

Russ Fellows

MINUTES OF WOOD-CHUCK MEETING, July 29, 2011

7:04 p.m. President Russ Fellows calls the slightly attended meeting to order; I count fifteen present. Guest Harvie Porter from Randolph is introduced and members introduce selves to Harvie.

Woodnet Fine Furniture & Woodworking Festival, September 24-25, still looking for both products and members to staff the booth.

Russ again recommends Woodturning Design magazine as especially helpful.

Picnic this year will be at Toby Fulwiler's Fairfield Farm on August 20 (see directions on 1st page).

Congratulations to Ralph and Angela Tursini for the birth of their baby boy!

7:20 Treasurer Ted Fink conducts the raffle with items such as $10 gift certificates, turning magazines, and interesting wood as prizes. Thirteen people participate and most seem well rewarded for their two dollar ante in. Ted bought back his pencil collection in the Silent Auction for $4.

7:25 Show & Tell. The feature for the evening is an all-member "Show and Tell," with no demos otherwise planned:

Bill Walsh explains his current interest in turning urns and wood burning, passing around samples of each and explaining the value of various wood burner tools including Razor Tip and Detail Master. Naturally, Bill also showed a homemade burner he made from an automobile battery charger. He was especially excited about a new off-center compass design he used on one of his hollow form bowls.

Toby Fulwiler passes around four small bowls turned from what he called a dark mystery wood inherited from his father; members identified the wood as coco bolo.

Ted Fink shows some of his new design ice cream bowls, smooth and thickly turned to provide insulation, including a giant bowl suitable for containing a Ben & Jerry's Vermonster or a full half gallon of more generic ice cream.

Greetings from Skunk Hollow ! Once again I have been "playing" with some new designs. I have been taking one of my "basket" designs that I have been doing for a number of years and expanding it to make it look like a spider's web. The one pictured here is maple and purpleheart, and in the picture doesn't look too bad. However, I am struggling with getting all the lines in the web to line up precisely. I use both 'segmenting' and 'stack-ring' techniques for this (normally my pieces use one or the other) and because of the many steps involved, am finding it difficult to get all the alignments perfect.

The other picture shows a different take on a checkerboard pattern. Laminating this way means that there is an unusually large amount of end-grain turning, relative to the total. The finished effect is quite dramatic as the pattern is revealed in so many different contours. I have just started this one and will bring it, or one like it, to the September meeting.

As always, I enjoy having visitors to my studio, and if you would like to explore a laminated or segmented turning technique, please don't hesitate to give me a call! 802-899-3059

Woodburning Tools—Bill Walsh

Here is a short note on what woodburning pens I've found to be the most useful.

My short journey into woodburning on turned items has helped form an opinion on what's out there for equipment.

First you'll need the woodburning unit, the main differences are one or two ports and the power rating. The units with two plug in jacks makes switching from one pen to another as easy as flipping a switch.

The two woodburning units I have the most experience with and feel good about recommending are the Detail Master and the Burnmaster. Both manufacturers have single and dual port models available and seem to recover their heat quickly.

Now for the pens, Detail Master has a complete line up of fixed tips pens. The first is from their "Special Pen" category that I've only seen on their web site. The pen is a model 20-A at around $30.00 direct from the factory.

This is a heavy duty skewer with a 14 Ga. cord. This pen is great to outline the borders and shapes, making both curved and straight lines easily.

The next pen is the model 10-A, which is used for very fine lines. The tip is much thinner than the 20-A and uses an 18 Ga. power cord. Both tips are sharpened on a stone and touched up using a leather strop. There is one more tip that I wouldn't be without. It is the Razor tip ball stylist 1/64". This can be used to sign your work. It's capable of burning very small letters which is something most of us struggle with. It takes practice but the tip needs to be small and this is the smallest one out there!!! To use this pen with the above mentioned units it requires a cord and an adapter which Craft Supply has listed on their site.

Greg Drew shows a remarkable burl bowl with both regular and irregular grain in the shape of what might be called a Friar's Hat. He explained the black walnut foot necessitated when he turned through the bottom for want of an effective depth gauge, which since then he's invented from old files and

Policy on AAW Liability Insurance

Members of WTNV who are giving public demonstrations are covered by the AAW-sponsored liability policy under the following conditions:

You must be a member of AAW and WTNV.

The event must be "sanctioned" by WTNV. That is, you must notify the Treasurer, who will provide a copy of the cover sheet for the policy. You must also notify the editor of Chatter so you can be listed in Future Woodchuck Sightings.

The demonstration must have wood turning as the main subject.
